2014 WOMEN'S NCAA RECAP

Notre Dame's Emma Reaney Earns Individual National Championship

Swimmers & Divers Collect Multitude of All-America Honors

GREENSBORO, N.C. (theACC.com) – Competing in the 2014 NCAA Women's Swimming & Diving Championships held in Minneapolis, Minn., this past weekend, Atlantic Coast Conference swimmers and divers earned one individual national championship, 20 All-America honors and 38 honorable mention All-American honors.

Notre Dame junior Emma Reaney was one of the ACC's top performing student-athletes, as she captured an individual national title in the 200 breaststroke event. In doing so, Reaney broke her own NCAA, U.S. Open and American record with a swim of 2:04.06. The individual title, which was the first in Fighting Irish history, caps a year in which Reaney earned a total of three All-America honors.

Seven-time defending ACC Champion Virginia was the highest finishing team in the league, placing 11th overall with 123 points. The Cavaliers were followed by NC State (16th, 48 points), Notre Dame (16th, 48 points), North Carolina (19th, 41 points), Miami (21st, 38 points), Virginia Tech (24th, 34 points), Florida State (30th, 23 points) and Duke (51st, 1 point).

With four teams having placed inside the top 20 of the field, the ACC tied for second place amongst all conferences for the most teams that placed in the top 20.

2014 MEN'S NCAA RECAP

Duke's Nick McCrory Earns Individual National Championship

Swimmers & Divers Collect Multitude of All-America Honors

GREENSBORO, N.C. (theACC.com) – Competing in the 2014 NCAA Men's Swimming & Diving Championships held in Austin, Texas, this past weekend, Atlantic Coast Conference swimmers and divers earned one individual national championship, 28 All-America honors and 23 honorable mention All-America honors.

Duke senior diver Nick McCrory was one of the ACC's top performing student-athletes, as he closed out his collegiate career by winning his fourth NCAA platform diving title – the first athlete to accomplish that feat. In addition to his individual national championship, McCrory earned All-America status in the 1-meter dive event to give him a total of 11 All-America honors in his diving career with the Blue Devils.

NC State placed the highest among ACC teams, as it registered 113.5 points. The Wolfpack was followed by Florida State (14th, 105 points), Virginia Tech (20th, 46 points), Duke (21st, 36 points), Miami (25th, 26 points), Virginia (26th, 23 points), Notre Dame (30th, 14 points), North Carolina (38th, 7 points) and Georgia Tech (47th, 1.5 points).

2014 SWIMMING & DIVING ALL-ACC ACADEMIC TEAMS

Duke senior Nick McCrory has been named the 2014 Atlantic Coast Conference Men's Swimming & Diving Scholar-Athlete of the Year and headlines the 2014 All-ACC Academic Men's Swimming & Diving Team, as announced today by Commissioner John Swofford.

A religion major from Chapel Hill, North Carolina, McCrory won his fourth individual national championship in the platform dive discipline at the 2014 NCAA Championships, becoming the first to accomplish the feat in that event. In addition, McCrory earned All-America status on the one-meter board. McCrory completes his career as an 11-time All-American and a record 10 gold medals in ACC Championship competition.

Each of the ACC's 11 schools that sponsor men's swimming and diving are represented on the All-Academic Team, led by Virginia Tech with nine student-athletes. Virginia and Notre Dame have six apiece, while North Carolina has five, NC State has four and Georgia Tech has three. Duke and Florida State each had two, followed by Pitt, Miami and Boston College with one honoree.

Virginia Tech's Ryan Hawkins and Nick Tremols, along with Florida State's Tom Neubacher, NC State's Jonathan Boffa and Virginia's Taylor Grey, were named to the league's academic team for the fourth time in their careers

Notre Dame junior Emma Reaney has been named the 2014 Atlantic Coast Conference Women's Swimming & Diving Scholar-Athlete of the Year and headlines the 2014 All-ACC Academic Women's Swimming & Diving Team, as announced today by Commissioner John Swofford.

A visual communications design major from Lawrence, Kan., Reaney captured an individual national championship in the 200 breastroke in dramatic fashion at the 2014 NCAA Championships, as she set a NCAA, U.S. Open and American record with her swim. In total, Reaney captured three All-America accolades and three gold medals at the 2014 ACC Championships.

Eleven schools are represented on the All-ACC Academic Team, led by Virginia with 12 student-athletes. Florida State and Notre Dame have six apiece, while NC State, North Carolina and Virginia Tech each have five representatives. Duke has four, and Miami has three, followed by Clemson, Georgia Tech and Pitt with one each.

Florida State's Julia Henkel, North Carolina's Katie Rechsteiner and Virginia's Emily Lloyd were named to the league's academic team for the fourth time in their careers.
