4 - ACC student-athletes (Maryland's Taylor Cummings and Megan Douty, and Syracuse's Alyssa Murray and Kayla Treanor) account for four of the five Tewaaraton Award finalists.

4 - With Maryland, Syracuse and Virginia in the NCAA semifinals, it marked the fourth time in the league's 18 years with three teams in the final four and 11th time with at least two teams in the final four. In those 18 years, the ACC has produced 33 of the 72 (45.8 percent) national semifinal teams.

7 - An ACC record seven teams earned berths in the NCAA Championship. Six of the eight national seeds were ACC teams, while six teams were among the eight quarterfinalists.

15 - The eight ACC programs have 15 national championships, including three of the last five, 30 appearances in the championship game and have reached the national semifinals 52 times. They are 152-99 in tournament play.

MARYLAND WINS 2014 NCAA CHAMPIONSHIP

TOWSON, Md. - Top-seeded Maryland captured its 12th national title Sunday with a 15-12 victory against No. 2 seed Syracuse in front of a record crowd of 10,311 at the 2014 NCAA Women's Lacrosse Championship at Johnny Unitas Stadium.

Maryland was led in scoring by lone senior starter Beth Glaros, who notched five goals. Taylor Cummings, Brooke Griffin and Kristen Lamon added hat tricks. The Terrapins boasted a 16-13 advantage in the draw circle, including eight from Cummings, en route to their first national championship since 2010.

Maryland's offense erupted from the onset, posting a commanding 5-0 run in the first 4:20 of the game. After Lamon began the drive with a score 43 seconds in the contest, Glaros and Cummings each found the back of the net for a 3-0 Terrapin lead. Lamon extended the cushion to four after an incredible feed from Kelly McPartland before the All-American midfielder gave Maryland its fifth consecutive goal at 25:40.

After Maryland was able to snag the first six draw controls of the game, Syracuse was finally able to gain its first possession and Kayla Treanor provided the Orange with a goal at 24:20. Amy Cross made it two-straight for Syracuse with a tally 1:20 later.

Treanor shrunk Maryland's lead to two with a top-shelf score at 12:06 and Alyssa Murray made it four-in-a-row for the Orange with a goal at 9:42 for a 5-4 match.

Cummings snapped a 16-minute scoring drought with an absolute rocket at 9:34 to push Maryland's lead back to two and Glaros extended it to three with a free position goal following a Syracuse yellow card, one of six issued to the Orange Sunday. Cummings – a Tewaaraton finalist – made it a hat trick with a tally through traffic with about five minutes remaining in the first half and gave Maryland a 9-6 lead at the break.

Syracuse struck first in the second stanza but the Terrapins quickly countered after an unselfish look from Cummings to Griffin for a 10-7 score with 27 minutes remaining before a second consecutive tally by Griffin extended the Maryland advantage to four.

Griffin continued to make her presence known in the final period, completing a second-half hat trick with a spectacular move around the crease for a five-goal Terrapin lead at 21:26. Lamon became the fourth Terrapin to record a hat trick with a free position goal for a 13-7 game with 19:38 remaining.

Syracuse halted the 4-0 run with a Kailah Kempney effort at 17:53 to end a nine-minute scoring lull before Glaros picked up two straight goals to push Maryland's lead to seven.

The Orange mustered one final run with four consecutive goals for a 15-12 score but the Terps' defense buckled down in the final four minutes of play to take home the title.

Maryland's 23 wins in 2014 ties a program-record, originally set in 2001 when the Terps went 23-0 on their way to a seventh-consecutive national championship.

TEWAARATON AWARD

After guiding the Terps to a 12th national championship, Maryland sophomore midfielder Taylor Cummings captured the 2014 Tewaaraton Award on a historical night at the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of the American Indian.

It is the third straight year the women's award winner has come from the ACC and seventh time overall. Cummings joins fellow Terrapins Katie Schwarzmann (2012, 2013), Caitlyn McFadden (2010) and Jen Adams (2001), and Duke's Katie Chrest (2005) and Virginia's Amy Applet (2004) as the ACC's women's Tewaaraton Award recipients. Cummings is the first female sophomore to win the Tewaaraton. Syracuse's Mike Powell was the only other sophomore winner, taking the first of his two Tewaaraton awards in 1992.

Cummings became Maryland's fifth overall winner and its fourth in the last five seasons after compiling a tremendous sophomore campaign for the Terps. The Ellicott City, Md., product led Maryland with 63 goals, 128 draw controls, 37 ground balls and 30 caused turnovers and ranked second on the Terps fourth-ranked scoring offense with 24 assists and 87 points.
